Time moves fast in the Dog World and here we are approaching the cooler months already! While the temperature may be on the way down, competitions, shows and trials are just ramping up at Dogs West.

Just a couple of highlights are the Western Classic on 3-6 March and the 2023 National Agility Trials on 23-28

May. In between we have Dogs West Open Day on 2 April, the State Dancing with Dogs Competition on 15 April and a number of Club events.

We are currently working on getting the grounds looking spick and span for the season and we hope to see you at these special events.

If anyone is available to be a volunteer and help out for either Western Classic, Open Day or National Agility Trial, please contact the office on k9@dogswest.com. Your contribution will be greatly appreciated.

Warm regards

Marzel Norton, Chief Executive Officer

President Report

We have been blessed with a much milder summer to date than was experienced last year and evening events have been very pleasant.

As our CEO Marzel has mentioned, we have big events coming up in lots of disciplines and I encourage everyone to get involved, and to lend a hand where possible. The Open Day is fast approaching and we hope to have a great day engaging with the public about us and our dogs, and to welcome theirs.

Marzel and myself recently met with Policy Officers from the Department of Primary Industries and Regional Development regarding the writing of new Regulations which are coming as part of the review of the Animal Welfare Act.

The meeting was positive, with much common ground around the ages of breeding dogs, numbers of litters and general care for dogs. The number of breeding dogs was extensively discussed, and it was acknowledged that more consultation needs to occur in this area.

Dogs West first made a submission on the Health and Welfare of Dogs Standards & Guidelines in June 2019. It is a certainty that these changes are taking some time, as are the Regulations under the Amendment to the Dog Act Stop Puppy Farming Legislation.

We are pleased to remain engaged and consulted on all these matters, and continue to work to put forward our comments and feedback to minimise the unintended consequences any Regulations may bring to bear on our Members.

'It's never too late to be what you might've been.' —George Eliot

Pamela Campbell, President

Canine ehrlichiosis:

Information for dog owners in Western Australia

Canine ehrlichiosis is a serious dog disease spread by the brown dog tick. Some brown dog ticks carry the bacterium Ehrlichia canis, which causes this disease in dogs. This first detection of ehrlichiosis (E. canis) in Australia occurred in Kununurra in May 2020. Following the initial detection, surveillance was undertaken by the Department of Primary Industries and Regional Development (DPIRD). In 2022, it was agreed nationally that E. canis could not be eradicated from Australia.

E. canis is now regarded as an endemic disease in all regions where the intermediate host, the brown dog tick, is present. For Western Australian dog owners, the Kimberley, Pilbara, Gascoyne and northern Goldfields are endemic areas. Popular holiday destinations in these regions include:

- | | |
|---------------|----------------|
| ✓ Carnarvon | ✓ Exmouth |
| ✓ Karratha | ✓ Broome |
| ✓ Halls Creek | ✓ Kununurra |
| ✓ Derby | ✓ Port Hedland |
| ✓ Newman | ✓ Coral Bay |

If you live or are planning to travel with your dog in regions where E. canis is endemic, an integral part of responsible pet ownership is ensuring your dog is adequately protected against the brown dog tick and E. canis. Speak to your veterinarian about the most effective preventative products for your situation, such as a tick collar or spot-on treatment.

Ehrlichiosis diagnostic testing

E. canis remains a reportable disease in WA, and reporting suspicion of the disease remains a requirement. If you suspect your dog has E. canis and exhibits signs of the disease, please visit your veterinarian immediately and request a charge-exempt diagnostic test through DPIRD Diagnostics and Laboratory Services (DDLs). Diagnostic testing for dogs without signs of E. canis will no longer qualify as being charge-exempt however will remain available on a fee-for-service basis.

Fee-for-service diagnostic testing will be available through DDLs and Vetpath Laboratory Services. An indication of associated fees can be provided by contacting animalbiosecurity@dpird.wa.gov.au.

Subclinical carriers and chronic ehrlichiosis

When infected with E. canis, dogs may become symptomatic and exhibit an acute infection. In other cases, some dogs infected with E. canis remain asymptomatic and become a subclinical carriers of the disease. This means the bacteria remains hidden in the infected dog's spleen and bone marrow, and the disease may reoccur in its chronic form. The number of subclinically infected dogs who go on to develop chronic E. canis is unknown. Because of these challenges, a dog diagnosed with acute (symptomatic) or subclinical E. canis (asymptomatic) is considered potentially subclinically infected for life, even after treatment.

Chronic E. canis is usually fatal. Ensure you protect your dog from infection if you live in or visit a region where the brown dog tick is present. Use a registered product that kills and repels ticks at all times.

More information

If you think your dog may have E. canis, contact your private veterinarian, local DPIRD veterinarian, or the Emergency Animal Disease Watch hotline. More information is available on the DPIRD website at agric.wa.gov.au/ehrlichiosis.

- 2.38 A member shall oppose all activities which involve cruelty to dogs or in which dogs inflict damage on other dogs or other animals excluding the hunting of vermin.
